APCC has been able to introduce new programs and procedures that enable workers to remain in jobs or return to work quickly, and faster than with traditional methods of pain reduction and cessation.

APCC has other locations in Coral Springs, Fort Lauderdale, Lauderdale Lakes, Margate, Sunrise and Weston.

Plenty of people name a parent as their role model. Others pick a business mentor or personal hero. But Fox said his children are his heroes.

“I envy their qualities - zest for life and excitement about everything, compassion and artistry,” he said.

But Fox’s own accomplishments, which involve his compassion toward patients, merit some excitement.

His pain management company has grown to eight interventional pain specialists from one, plus has now four anesthesiologists and other medical staff. The practice has also expanded to seven locations and has exclusive services contracts at hospitals and surgical centers. “The biggest challenge,” Fox said, “is to provide the highest level of medical service in a compassionate manner for people in constant pain without compromising our standards due to financial constraints within the system.”
