ROBOTIC TRAINING: A spinal cord stimulation suite in a traveling bus pulled up to Anesthesia Pain Care Consultants in Tamarac, with equipment from Boston Scientific, a manufacturer and marketer of medical devices. The stimulation suite is used for doctor training, as well as patient education, and extensively by medical schools throughout the county. It features a robotic patient that models an actual patient, with a computerized image of the procedure and voice activation regarding pain. Doctors can practice their technique and the patient will respond, much the way the actual procedure unfolds.
